

Team sports, individual sports and odds on these are not strange. We can often see odds as 1.50, 2.25 or 3.50 times the money. The definition of such odds is quite simple.

Of course, everything is easy when you can and therefore we take a review from the beginning. But there are other things to play on: Horses are one such example.

The vast majority of betting sites take bets on horse racing. But the sport, which is extremely big in Malaysia, is not entirely unexpectedly quite traditional. Therefore, we want some knowledge about this type of odds when we bet on horses.

From here we move on to different game terms in this sport:

Show

The odds of this are quite low, as your chances of winning are high. "Betting on a show" means that the horse you are betting on must be among the top three for you to win.

Quinella

A kind of system game when you have three horses. Two of these - whatever they are - must come first and second.

Exacta

Here we choose at least two horses for our game and we choose which horse will come first and second place. These odds are based on the horses' individual odds. This type of game can run away in cost if you choose many horses. Two will top the race when it's over.

Trifecta and Superfecta

Instead of playing in the top-2, we play in the top-3 to put our Trifecta. For Superfecta, it is top-4. To get into this game, you need to guard with a few horses to have a reasonable chance at the game – and it can cost you dearly.
