

Horse racing is one of the most popular spectator sports in Malaysia, as well as many other places in the world. Every day of the week many thousands of bettors pay a visit to their local horse racing track.

Wagering on horse racing may take place through pari-mutuel pools or bookmakers may take bets personally. Pari-mutuel wagers pay off at prices determined by support in the wagering pools, while bookmakers pay off either at the odds offered at the time of accepting the bet or at the median odds offered by track bookmakers at the time the race started.

Today, horse racing betting is reported to be Malaysia's second popular spectator sports (obviously, football is the first). From Monday to Saturday tracks stage meetings all over the country.

In Malaysia, the most common types of horse races include:

- Win: To succeed the bettor must pick the horse which wins the race.
- Place: The bettor must pick a horse which finishes either first or second.
- Show: The bettor must pick a horse which finishes first, second, and third.
- Exacta: The bettor must pick the two horses which finish first and second and specify which will finish first.
- Quinella: The bettor must pick the two horses which finish first, second, but need not specify which will finish first.
- Trifecta: The bettor must pick the three horses which finish first, second, and third and specify which will finish first, second, and third.
- Superfecta: The bettor must pick the four horses which finish first, second, third and fourth, and specify which will finish first, second, third, and fourth.
